

When the Sun sextiles Saturn in the Natal Chart

Sun sextile Saturn

Explore what it means when the Sun and Saturn harmonize through a sextile aspect in your birth chart.

SUN SEXTILE SATURN

With your Sun-Saturn sextile, it's easy and natural for you to accept responsibilities, lead a relatively orderly life, and apply caution in financial and business dealings. For instance, you might be the one in your friend group who always takes charge of planning and organizing events. You rarely jump to conclusions or take uneducated risks. Instead, you might spend a significant amount of time researching before making a decision. You have a little more patience than others and enough self-discipline to slowly but surely achieve what you set out to do. This could be seen in your commitment to a long-term project or goal.

While you may not be the most expressive, your loyalty and responsibility towards your loved ones are unwavering. Your trustworthiness is a natural part of your character, and you find it hard to comprehend those who disrespect others, take reckless risks, or lead chaotic lives. Your methodical approach to projects isn't the fastest, but it ensures you reach your goals consistently.

This aspect adds a distinct layer of responsibility and reliability to your nature. Your dependability in various areas of life, coupled with your meticulousness in projects close to your heart, earns you the respect of others. Even in your youth, you were often seen as more mature than your peers. While you respect tradition and convention, you also have the foresight to recognize when change is necessary. Your ability to make sacrifices in the present for your future self is a testament to your strength. People in authority often appreciate your balanced approach.

General discussion of Sun-Saturn aspects.

What is a sextile? A sextile is an astrological aspect of 60 degrees. Astrologers generally consider two planets or points to be sextile one another if they are approximately 55 to 65 degrees away from each other, give or take. This range depends on the orb an astrologer allows and, in this example, the orb is 5 degrees.

The sextile is considered harmonious and easy. The planets forming a sextile are playing nicely with one another, making benefits and opportunities more likely. Sextiles hold the potential for an intelligent use of the energies of the involved planets and points.

Sun sextile Saturn:

You have the ability to learn a great deal from your life experiences and a talent for helping others learn from your mistakes. Although you are relatively modest, you are a very understanding and competent person. You use your resources (personal and otherwise) wisely and treat others with respect. Others value your opinion highly, but you usually prefer to fade into the background and allow others with larger egos to get the attention.

In your career you are highly ambitious and are willing to follow your own judgment against the advice of others– and you are usually glad you did. Since you treat your supervisors with respect, they also respect you, and this can help you a great deal in the professional world. You are not interested in get-rich-quick schemes, preferring instead to plan your course carefully and follow it one careful step at a time.

You could excel in a career in law, politics, research and development, teaching or industrial management. No matter which field you enter, you will probably soon rise to a position in management. You are highly responsible in your business dealings and keep up with the latest advances in order to remain competitive. Because you have worked hard for all you have gained in life, it would be hard for a competitor to topple you. You build your career on a solid foundation of integrity, competency and efficiency.

In your personal life, you prefer to associate with others who hold sincerity and honesty in high esteem. You are fond of the old fashioned ways and traditions and are able to see their value. In your love life you would be happiest with a permanent, stable relationship with someone you respect.
